Wilderness First Responder

The W.F.R. course will give you the skills and knowledge to respond to and manage patients in rural, back country, or other settings where transportation to a medical facility will be delayed.

This course will be an 80-hour intensive training covering:

- Anatomy & Physiology
- Patient Assessment
- Environmental Medicine
- Wilderness Rescue
- All requirements for the state and national certification test for first responders

Instructors will be from Roane State Community College. Their program is recognized by the American Camping Association and accredited by the Southern Association for Colleges.

The course cost does not include the cost of optional tests.

- National Registry Test: $65
- Tennessee First Responder Certification: $45

Additional Materials Needed:

Two sets of clothes to be used & destroyed during the class, eye protection and a head light.

Wilderness Refresher Course

This 24 hour class should be repeated at two-year intervals for all Wilderness First Responders. This will also meet the National Registry First Responder renewal requirements, & will include CPR renewal. Learn the new protocols & techniques that may have come along since you took your initial course, plus review & practice old skills & techniques. We'll give you a taste of the scenario-based learning experience you've been craving since the last time we saw you. This course is endorsed by the American Camping Association.

More Details

Wilderness First Responder courses are physically and mentally demanding. Parts of the course will be indoors, but much of the learning happens outside in practice situations. Come prepared for rain, dark, heat and cold.

Lodging is provided in cabins. Participants must provide their own linens.

Camp Wesley Woods is located in Townsend, Tennessee near the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.
